

15 fabulous hotels in England

Monday, 04 May 2015
From arty boutiques to sprawling country manors, check out 15 of England's finest hotels.
Author: Emma England

Fancy a weekend as lord of the manor on your own country estate? Looking for a city crash pad for when you're done partying?

Whether it's your first time to the land of rosen tea, cold and changeable weather, or you're craving a (hopefully sunny) staycation this summer, take a peek at these 15 fabulous hotels from across England.

1. 2 Hotel, Shoreditch, London
The 2 Hotel is an ideal choice for a few nights in the centre of London's fashionable Shoreditch area. Surrounded by cool pubs and restaurants, the accommodation features art and modern interior design. Personalized UK courses starting at just £18 a night, you should have plenty of people left over to spend in the independent boutiques on Old Street or the vintage shops off nearby Brick Lane.

Read more: Top 10 things to do in London

2. Bristol Marriott Royal Hotel, Bristol
This four-star charmer, set on the waterfront and beside the city's cathedral, is one of many beautiful Victorian buildings you'll find in historic Bristol. Sleep like a king in a luxury four-poster bed, or treat like a playboy in the hotel's Roman-esque leisure club. Have a night coy at tip and bag a bedroom for about £35 a night.

Read more: 10 best things to do in Bristol

3. Artist Residence, Brighton
There's nothing on the coast in England that to be beside the seaside, so grab your beach towel and get down to one of Brighton's quirkier hotels, the Artist Residence. Even if you're not the next Picasso, you can still enjoy the hotel's unique interior, designed by local artists. But this is not just a place to bed down, enjoy a night cap in The Cocktail Shack or delicious seasonal fare in the hotel restaurant, The Set.

Read more: 10 of the best beaches in Britain

3. Artist Residence, Brighton
There's nothing on the coast in England that to be beside the seaside, so grab your beach towel and get down to one of Brighton's quirkier hotels, the Artist Residence. Even if you're not the next Picasso, you can still enjoy the hotel's unique interior, designed by local artists. But this is not just a place to bed down, enjoy a night cap in The Cocktail Shack or delicious seasonal fare in the hotel restaurant, The Set.

Read more: 10 of the best beaches in Britain

4. Lime Wood Hotel, New Forest, Hampshire
There's no need to digress if you're heading down to Lime Wood today, although you may be surprised by what you find. Afternoon tea calls to take tea, so do in the highlands. The coach house at the entrance, Longway, is bound to fall in love with the hotel's rustic charm. This English country garden has many uses, from outdoor gym and yoga studio, to the hotel restaurant's local bar. Accommodation starts at £125 a night.

